Prayer of Accomplishing the Paramita Virtues

With one eye on this world and one on the next,
And a third focused on the timeless dimension,
Throughout this life and all possible lifetimes
Until enlightenment be achieved,
May I inexhaustibly endeavor in the Bodhisattva way
And follow the path of unconditional compassion and selfless altruism,
So that all beings everywhere may be delivered
And freed from the ravages of suffering and confusion
And reach the other shore, great peace, deathless nirvana.
May I perfect the sublime virtue of generosity, which brings contentment through liberating craving, grasping, and attachment.

May I develop and accomplish the pure virtue of ethical self-discipline, which dries up the boiling river of greed, hatred,
and delusion and is a kindness to all.
May I perfect the noble virtue of patience, which can face naked reality, forgive,
accept adversity, bear hardship,
and turn it into an ally.

May I perfect the noble virtue of enthusiastic effort and fearless perseverance, which heroically strives for the ultimate benefit of all.

May I perfect the subtle virtue of concentration and alert mindfulness, which clarifies the heart and mind and allows awareness to dawn within.

May I perfect the profound virtue of transcendental knowledge-wisdom, which knows how things actually are as well as how they arise and operate.

May I perfect the multifaceted virtue of skillful means,
and resourcefulness, which makes all things possible and swiftly accomplishes all that is wanted and needed.

May I perfect the adamantine virtue of unshakable resolve, determination, and inspired aspiration,
which has universal vision and scope.

May I perfect the radiant virtue of spiritual empowerment and positive influence, which accomplishes unselfish service and active love far beyond the limits of mortal beings.

May I realize the supreme virtue of awakened awareness, which recognizes the innate purity and primordial perfection of all that is.

May all that has been prayed for and here affirmed be realized and accomplished by one and all!
