Anumodana Chants

(Blessings for the Meal)

In gratitude for the generous offering of the meal, the monastics offer in return these traditional blessings upon us. Anumodana can be translated as "rejoicing in the good that has been done." The meal offering is an occasion for mutual generosity and gratitude.

Yatha varivaha pura
Paripurenti sagaram,
Evameva ito dinnam
Petanam upakappati.
Icchitam patthitam tumham
Khippameva samijjhatu,
Sabbe purentu sankappa
Cando pannaraso yatha,
Mani jotiraso yatha.

Just as the flowing rivers
Fill the oceans,
So too does that offered here
Benefit those who have passed away.
Whatever your true heart desires,
May it quickly come to pass,
And your wishes be fulfilled
Just as the full moon and the lucky charm
Bring good fortune.

Sabbitiyo vivajjantu
Sabbaroga vinassatu,
Ma te bhavatvantarayo
Sukhi dighayuko bhave.
Abhivaddanasilissa
Niccam vuddhapacayino,
Cattaro dhamma vaddhanti
Ay vanno sukham balam.

May all calamities be averted,
May all sickness be cured,
May you encounter no dangers,
And may you live a long and happy life.
To those of respectful nature,
Ever honored by the elders,
May these four qualities grow in you:
Long life and beauty, happiness and strength.

Bhavatu sabbamangalam
Rakkhantu sabbadevata
Sabbabuddhanubhavena
Sada sotthi bhavantu te.
Bhavatu sabbamangalam
Rakkhantu sabbadevata
Sabbadhammanubhavena
Sada sotthi bhavantu te.
Bhavatu sabbamangalam
Rakkhantu sabbadevata
Sabbasanghanubhavena
Sada sotthi bhavantu te.

May all blessings be upon you,
May all the heavenly beings guard you well,
By the power of all the Buddhas,
May you ever dwell in safety.
May all blessings be upon you,
May all the heavenly beings guard you well,
By the power of all the Dhammas,
May you ever dwell in safety.
May all blessings be upon you,
May all the heavenly beings guard you well,
By the power of all the Sanghas,

May you ever dwell in safety.
