VISION QUEST 2021: MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING AND RELEASE OF LIABILITY

I choose to participate in this wilderness trip and vision quest (hereafter referred to as the 'wilderness trip'), which is being planned to promote individual and collective spiritual growth and healing. By choosing to participate, I agree to take responsibility for my own wellbeing, and I agree to help support the wellbeing of the others in the group.

I understand the wilderness trip will be facilitated by volunteers. This year the volunteers will be Andrea Axtell, Elisa Reubens, and Will Meecham (hereafter referred to as the volunteer facilitators). I understand the volunteer facilitators are not professional wilderness guides and do not possess the skills, experience, and training needed to manage medical or psychiatric emergencies in outdoor settings. They are volunteering in order to help make the wilderness trip possible, and at the request of those who participate. I understand that the fees charged cover direct and indirect expenses, such as food, fuel, and equipment, and that the volunteer facilitators will not receive payment.

I understand that this wilderness trip will be physically and emotionally demanding. I understand it is my responsibility to consult with medical providers regarding my fitness to fast for three days and spend a week at high altitude. I understand that if I have a history of emotional or psychiatric problems, it is my responsibility to consult with mental health professionals about my fitness to spend three days alone in a harsh environment.

I understand that this wilderness trip involves risks and dangers. These include—but are not limited to—the hazards of long distance road travel (including driving late at night on mountain roads) and the hazards of camping and hiking at high elevation in a desert wilderness area. I understand the weather will be very dry and possibly extremely hot or cold. I understand there is therefore a potential for dehydration, heat stroke or hypothermia, and I agree to learn and take necessary precautions. I understand I could suffer a fall or other injury, and that dangerous wildlife is present in the area. I understand that our destination is in a remote region without prompt access to emergency medical personnel, hospital facilities, or means of rapid evacuation, and that this remoteness increases the risks and dangers. I understand that while I am fasting alone my wellbeing will be largely unmonitored, with only a minimal daily confirmation by my quest partner (aka, 'rock buddy'), and that this lack of monitoring also increases the risks and dangers.

In choosing to participate in this wilderness trip, I accept the risks and dangers, including but not limited to those named above. I release the volunteer facilitators from liability for any injury, accidental death, or damages I might suffer as a result of this wilderness trip. I will hold them harmless, and I will defend them against any and all actions, suits, debts, demands, and claims that may arise in connection with this wilderness trip. My assumption of risk and my release of the volunteer facilitators from liability shall extend to my heirs, administrators, executors, and all members of my family.
